

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

We give thanks to you, O God, We thank to you!

We proclaim how great you are and tale of the wonderful things you have done. (psalm 75:1)

It takes vision, passion and commitment to bring dream into reality. It also takes an extra - ordinary amount of support. My dissertation on “A Case study of adjustment problems and coping mechanism of boys and girls in Navodaya Vidyalaya of Narmada district in Gujarat” was one such dream. Having reached that milestone, it is my privilege to reflect up on the path I have covered for this journey and express my heartfelt gratitude to those whose support helped me to fulfil this part of my dream. My first and foremost gratitude is to the Lord Almighty for bestowing his blessing, kindling the light in me, so that I could accomplish my task successfully.

Smt. Dr. Archana Tomar, my mentor, Guru and guide, without whom this work would never have been possible, brought an exceptional wealth of wisdom, experience, and generosity in my project. Her in-depth knowledge in research methodology and attitude mapping stood me in good stead. I express my heartfelt gratitude for her ungrudging remarkable insightful guidance, her vision towards innovative ideas in education, worthwhile direction and effective suggestions.

I express my thanks to Prof. S. C. Panigrahi, Head of the department, CASE, for giving me permission to use library of CASE, MSU, Baroda. I offer my gratitude towards all the teachers those who helped me in my tools validation.

I am extremely thankful to Shri. Anand. M. Chaware, the principal, JNV, Dist: Narmada for allowing me to collect data. And my special thanks to Aniyash and students of all the classes for contributing their valuable time and suggestions.

I am conscious of my gratitude towards my friends Manish Kumar Meena, Aavrut Bhatt for their ready assistance at any point of time. I deeply express my indebtedness to my parents and my dear wife Yogeshvari N. Vasava for their constant encouragement and inspiration.

I conclude by thanking once again one and all who has contributed directly or indirectly in completing my project successfully.

Narendra Vasava
